MIRROR IMAGES OR HOW TO LOSE OUR SO-CALLED WAR AGAINST TERROR***

As I watch and read the news from the Middle East and Afghanistan, I see that the U.S.’s and Israel’s battle against terrorists are mirror images. Both nations are going through the motions of fighting against terrorists but not in a way to win the fight.

The war against terrorists must be conducted on the same basis as the jihadist war against the U.S., Israel and the rest of the West. We cannot win the war on the basis of trying to cherry-pick-off our enemies. We must lash out widely and wildly against the so-called Muslim civilian populations in explosive areas—those “innocent civilians” that hide, feed, protect and finance the jihadist fighters.

Does the West have a death wish?

We must strike fear again and again into the hearts of everyone in every community near an attack on our troops or civilians. Any other approach is a death wish on the part of the West—and the Muslims are all too happy to make this wish a reality.

In this fight to the death against the international forces of evil being generated by Islam, the West is obligated to temporarily abandon the philosophical “humanism” which works so well during times of tranquility. It is essential to recall how the onslaughts of Islam were defeated in the past. The battle of Tours forced the Arabs to start their long retreat from Western Europe. Two battles at the gates of Vienna stopped the march of the Ottomans in Eastern Europe. In India, a coalition of Hindu princes prevented the domination of the subcontinent by the forces of Islam.

Without overwhelming force, we had better get used to praying 5 times a day

Let’s imprint those events on our psyches. Only by overwhelming force were the Islamic terrorists of previous ages prevented from conquering the world!!

It cannot be different this time. Negotiations with the Muslims are worthless. They are not our good neighbors that can be considered reasonable by our standards. Read the Koran or the rulings and statements by their religious and political leaders and you will quickly learn that we are not dealing with a New England town meeting. Study an honest analysis of Islamic and Arab culture, not the myths peddled by Saudi Arabia to the West, and you will be amazed and disheartened by the wide chasm that separates them from America and Israel.

The Muslims have already brought the war to us

Islam, I believe, has won the first round in this fight. Millions of Muslims with jihadist outlooks and loyalties have infiltrated and are influencing policies in the West. The oil-rich Arab and Muslim countries, as well, are contributing powerfully to promoting the myths of their peaceful and reasonable religion and cultures while supporting jihadism financially and educationally. We already have witnessed small examples in London, Madrid, at our African embassies, in India, in Iraq, in Kashmir, in the Philippines, in Bali, in Chechnya, in Israel, in New York City, and various other U.S. cities of their capabilities and intentions. On every continent except Antarctica, Muslims are polluting the civil environment.

Just as we saved hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of American lives by bombing German and Japanese cities into ashes, we must use similar harsh but just techniques against the evil forces of Islam. Anything less will be self destructive to America, Israel and the rest of the West.

In the immortal words of NIKE, we must: "Just do it!"

I'VE HEARD THIS ARGUMENT BEFORE, BUT IT HAS TO BE REPEATED OVER AND OVER AND OVER AGAIN UNTIL IT IS BURNED INTO THE ISRAELI AND JEWISH PSYCHE!

The Jerusalem Knock Out: By Moshe Feiglin
Translated from the Makor Rishon newspaper. May 16, 2007

"Shalom, this is Gideon Levi from the Ha'aretz newspaper," said the voice on the other end of the phone line. "On Sunday, I will be moderating a symposium on the topic of Jerusalem. Health Minister Yuli Tamir will be there, Faisal Hussein from the Palestinian Authority will speak, and I will be happy if you would also come," he says.

The Jerusalem Theatre is filled with Jerusalem Leftists -- all sorts of "human rights" types. A film depicting the suffering of Jerusalem's Arabs under the Israeli occupation is screened. At the end, the audience is palpably angry. "I am honored to present the Jerusalemite who holds the Education portfolio in the Palestinian Authority, Dr. Faisal Hussein," says Gideon Levi. Loud applause accompanies Hussein as he ascends the steps to the stage and seats himself near the small coffee table at center stage. "Our second guest is Health Minister Professor Yuli Tamir." The honorable minister also enjoys loud applause as she sits next to Hussein.

A hand unshaken

"And our third guest, Mr. Moshe Feiglin." I don't hear any catcalls, but the absolute silence shouts even louder. I walk between the rows of seats to the stage. But before I could ascend the stairs, Hussein gets up, stands at the top of the steps and greets me with his outstretched hand. His hand remains in the air. I ignore him and seat myself next to Yuli Tamir.

"Before we begin our discussion," Levi says, "I must ask you a question, Mr. Feiglin. A respectable, mature person gets up in your honor and wishes to shake your hand. Why don't you respond in kind?" "Mr. Hussein is my enemy," I answer simply. "He wants my Jerusalem. Would you shake the hand of someone who demands your home?"

The discussion begins. Hussein speaks about his family who has lived in Jerusalem for 600 years. He speaks of the good neighborly relations between the Arabs and Jews, depicting the pastoral Garden of Eden that existed in Jerusalem before the Jewish conquest. "When the occupation will end," he concludes his words to the vigorous nodding of Minister Tamir, "we will once again live in peace."

The only ones that believe in God

"You know what, Faisal?" I turn to Hussein in a friendly tone. "We have something in common that nobody else in this auditorium shares." Hussein looks at me in surprise. The audience becomes alert, waiting for peace to break out in the hall. "I think that you and I are the only people in this entire auditorium that believe in G-d," I continue. "You do believe in G-d, isn't that correct, Mr. Hussein?" Hussein nods his agreement.

"Now look," I continue. "I have brought a Bible with me. This is my holy book." I take a Bible out of my briefcase and place it on the coffee table. "Jerusalem appears in my holy book more than 800 times. You can count if you would like." Hussein nods his head, looking confused. "I also brought another book," I continue as I pull a Koran that I had borrowed from the library out of my briefcase. "This is a Koran. It is your holy book. Is that correct?" Hussein nods his agreement. I place the Koran on the coffee table next to the Bible. "Can you please count how many times Jerusalem appears in your holy book? You will not have to work hard, because it doesn't appear at all.

Now tell me -- to whom does Jerusalem belong? To the People of the Bible or the People of the Koran?" To my surprise, the audience begins to applaud. This is the language with which we will retain our sovereignty over Jerusalem.

(Moshe Feiglin heads Manhigut Yehudit, the Jewish Leadership Group, the largest faction in the Likud party. This group offers the only political platform that stands for a strong, ethical Jewish state. Based on his record, Feiglin is the only political leader in Israel that I trust and admire.)

CATHOLIC DREAM TRAIN: AN AMERICAN NIGHTMARE***

Catholic cardinals, bishops and priests are launching a “dream train” from Los Angeles to Washington to promote amnesty for illegal aliens including gang members. Maybe their hearts bleed for the welfare of these Mexican and other Central American illegals or maybe they are looking for believers to fill their churches. I think, the latter. If the priests were concerned about the welfare of their coreligionists, they would send the “dream train” south into Mexico, a Catholic country, and prevail on the Mexican politicians, businessmen and church leaders to make Mexico a place where its people could make a decent living. Mexico is not a poor country. Its lay and church leaders live well and their Swiss and American bank accounts show very substantial balances.

If they made the place livable, their people wouldn't be streaming into the U.S. illegally. But I don't see popish priests demanding a better life for the Mexicans in Mexico.

After the Cardinal of Los Angeles and his collared staff straighten out Mexico, they should continue south on the “dream train” through the rest of Catholic Central America and persuade the leaders there to make their countries livable. If they follow my advice they would really be doing God's work as they claim to be doing with their cross-country jaunt. Instead, if they convince Congress to pass the amnesty bill, they would be doing the devil's work. Amnesty would go a long way to turn America into an economic and cultural nightmare for the middle class.

NAMES

Names that fit and names that don't.

Here are a couple of names from the Norwalk, CT police blotter of June 1, 2007 that go well together: Dwayne Leak and Kevin Flood. Although they both were charged with 2nd degree breach of peace, no other relationship was indicated.

QUOTES

Diogenes considers them clever, stupid and/or informative, not that he necessarily agrees with them.

It was reported today that at a White House staff meeting last week there was a heated discussion about the health of Vice President Cheney and his angina problem. President Bush interrupted and stated emphatically that men do not have anginas.

The IQ and the life expectancy of the average American recently passed each other going in opposite directions.

- George Carlin

In his funky, scatological and sometimes clever little book, Napalm & Silly Putty, George Carlin proposed that we should bring back the death penalty for outrageous criminal behavior such as laundering drug money. He advocated going back to some of the no longer used methods like crucifixion, beheading and boiling in oil. What surprised me was that Carlin, who is probably eating healthy since his heart surgery, neglected to specify extra virgin olive oil for the boiling in oil technique.

READERS' COMMENTS

Re: Vol. VII, #7

When I see someone with their head cocked (more picturesque than tilted) to the side, I think they are hard of hearing or else trying to keep their head screwed on. Speaking of screwing, that was pretty powerful language Diogenes used in his criticism of American political parties...not that they don't deserve it.

A conundrum:

If it takes only one evil person to wreak havoc and devastation on many, how many good people does it take to counter evil, or, must the good become evil in order to destroy evil. And does this now make them evil too? Who then are "the good guys" and who "the bad guys"? How do we destroy the guilty without simultaneously destroying the innocent?
